The PM and the Windrush migrants' plight

healthcare, loss of accommodation and even threats of removal. The first black bishop in the Church of England, the Right Rev Wilfred Wood, who is a former Bishop of Croydon, is from Barbados. He has recently written of his grief and anger at the treatment meted out to those now forced into destitution and denied a British identity that they have always taken for granted.

We welcome the steps taken yesterday but remain concerned that there has been no commitment to a change in the application of government policy. Those who grew up in this country with the official line that they were the equal of any are still being told to prove it. We therefore call upon the British government to exercise a rule of presumption in favour of such cases unless they have evidence to the contrary.

THE RIGHT REV SARAH MULLALLY, Bishop of London; THE RIGHT REV CHRISTOPHER CHESSUN, Bishop of Southwark; THE RIGHT REV DR MICHAEL IPGRAVE, Bishop of Lichfield, chairman, Council of Christians and Jews; RABBI DAVID MASON, Rabbinical Council of the United Synagogue; RABBI DANNY RICH, Senior Rabbi, CEO, Liberal Judaism

Sir, We share the concerns expressed by the high commissioners of Caribbean nations and numerous MPs that the children of Caribbean migrants who arrived in this country 50 years ago or more have faced loss of employment, barriers in receiving
